

Can your business support survivors of Modern Slavery to access safe, permanent employment?

OUR MISSION

To provide an accessible route to safe and permanent employment for survivors of Modern Slavery, to see them fully restored and living in freedom with dignity.

ABOUT US

Bright Future Cooperative consists of:

- Business Members, who offer employment opportunities to candidates
- Referrer Members, who are supporting survivors in their recovery from exploitation

The cooperative model allows for collaboration and promotes a sustainable approach to ensuring all survivors can rebuild their lives through safe and stable employment with their choice at the forefront.

Bright Future's National Matching Service (NMS) is managed by CAUSEWAY, who have over 5 years' experience of running the service. Referrals are vetted to ensure candidates meet the eligibility requirement, and our team work closely with you throughout the process to maximise the success of placements.

IMPACT FOR SURVIVORS

- Meaningful community and purpose
- A pathway towards their preferred profession
- To re-integrate into society
- Control over their future
- Financial stability and freedom
- Agency to use existing skills, upskilling them for future work

MODERN SLAVERY

In 2022 alone, 17,000 survivors of modern slavery were identified in the UK.

Survivors face a number of barriers to finding safe and permanent employment as a result of their exploitation, including: a lack of confidence, job history and interview experience. Bright Future aims to break down these barriers by offering the opportunity of work without the need for a CV or a competitive interview. This accessible route to employment reduces the risk of re-exploitation.

Our business members understand the vulnerabilities survivors may have.
